The following was sent to KYAE listserv.

New materials - especially for events

Instructor Opal Fannin recently contacted me about items they could hand out at a few big events they'll be attending soon. She needed something cheap (or free) that would attract people to their table. Opal, program director Eva Henderson and I brainstormed and we eventually came up with a series of adult coloring sheets to capitalize on the current adult coloring craze. (When they have adult coloring books at Lowe's, you know it's a "thing," right?)

There are three different sheets, each with a different picture and encouraging message ... Here is one:

Picture This!

Picture yourself opening the door to greater opportunities.
Picture yourself applying for your dream job and getting it.
Picture yourself earning the diplomas you've always wanted.
It's YOUR future. Color it however you want. We can help!

I'm excited to hear how these sheets work for Opal and Eva ... I believe they're going to put out all three at their events, with the thought that it will encourage people to spend more time at the table. I'm also interested to hear how they work for you, so please let me know how you use them – and people’s response. (If you use them at a table at an event, I recommend putting up a sign advertising that you have free adult coloring sheets available – perhaps in a plastic frame behind the sheets.)

You may download these customizable sheets here, under “Most Recent” (at the top):
